

INDEX.

VOL. IV.

A	No.
ALBOUZAIID, advice of Morad his father to.....	190
Advantages, many not to be enjoyed together.....	178
Affectation, absurdity of.....	179
Ajut, history of.....	186, 187
Aliger, character of.....	201
Altilia, coquetry of.....	182
Anningait and Ajut, story of.....	186, 187
Associates, rules for the choice of.....	160
Aurantius, his unjust treatment of Liberalis.....	163
Authors, directions to.....	176
BELLARIA, character of.....	191
Ben-Hannase, his magnet for detecting incontinence..	199
Boileau, Mons. on the power of diction.....	168
Boyle, Robert, his opinion of the best expedients for promoting manufactures.....	201
Business, the neglect of it foolish and pernicious..	181, 182
CAPTATOR, a legacy-hunter, history of.....	197, 198
Centilenus, the low taste of.....	177
Characters, the general inclination to copy those of others considered.....	164
Chartophylax, character of.....	177
Clubs of antiquaries.....	177
Commendation, false claims to it censured.....	189
Companions, different classes of described.....	188
Competitions, often supported by interest and envy... influence of.....	183
Constantius, history and character of.....	192
Conversation, the art of, difficult to be obtained.....	188
importance of acquiring it.....	177
what methods most proper.....	188
errors in sentiment and practice of.....	188

INDEX.

	No.
Credulity, the common failing of inexperienced virtue	175
Critics, different classes of.....	176
Criticism, the proper end of.....	176
————, minute, censured and exploded.....	176
DEPENDENCE, perpetual, contrary to the dignity of wisdom.....	162
Depravation of the mind by external advantages, not universal .....	172
Dicaculus, his affectation of the character of a wit...	174
Diction, attractive power of its charms.....	163
EDUCATION, errors in the conduct of.....	191
———— instances of remissness and irregularity of .....	189, 197
Envy, malignant influence of.....	183
———— sacrifices truth and friendship to weak temptations .....	183
Essay writing, extent and variety of.....	184
———— advantages and inconveniences of.....	184
Essence of things less regarded than their external and accidental appendages.....	162
Eumathes, his judicious conduct in the tuition of a young nobleman.....	194
———— his ill success.....	194
Expectation, the practice of disappointing others, not consistent with true friendship.....	163
———— exemplified in the case of Liberalis.....	163
———— our expectations often visionary.....	196
External appearances frequently delusive.....	196
Extravagance, instances of.....	192
FALSEHOOD, artifices of .....	189
Fame, the ascent to, obstructed by envy and competition.....	165
Favour, often gained with little assistance from the understanding. ....	188
Ferratus, his favourite passion .....	177
Flattery, most successful when accommodated to particular circumstances or characters.....	172, 180, 189
———— openness to, the disgrace of declining life...	162
———— influence of, to quiet conviction and remorse	172
Flavilla, levity and inconstancy of.....	182
Fortune-hunters.....	182
Friendship, qualities requisite to form and establish it	160

INDEX.

	No.
Fruition, limits of it fixed by immoveable boundaries..	178
Futurity, folly of building our hopes upon.....	203
GARRET , the history and antiquities of a.....	161
Gelasimus, character of.....	179
Gluttony, censure of.....	206
Gulosulus, his extensive gluttony.....	206
HAPPINESS , methods by which it may be often destroyed	175 — distant and lasting, secured only by the forbearance of present gratifications .....	178
— human schemes of promoting it, visionary and delusive.....	202, 207
Harmony and friendship, how maintained.....	160
Hermeticus, his secret for detecting incontinence.....	199
Hirsutus, character of.....	177
Hope predominates amidst frequent disappointments..	196
— in what respect the chief happiness of man .....	203
Hymenæus, his amours and marriage with Tranquilla	167
IMITATION of others, when censurable.....	164
Incontinence, a scheme for detecting .....	199
Injuries, the forgiveness of, necessary to happiness ...	185
— when easiest to be practised, and motives to encourage .....	185
Interest, influence of, upon the resolutions and actions
of life.....	183
KNOWLEDGE , the desire of, in many feeble and transient	178
— failures to which men who study it are exposed.....	180
LABOUR , necessary to excellence.....	169
Lady, young, busy life of a.....	191
Language, remarks on the purity and propriety of....	168
Latronia, character of.....	182
Legacy-hunter, character of.....	197, 198
Leviculus, character of.....	182
Liberalis, the wit, adventures of.....	163
Life, general plan of, should be formed from our own reflections .....	184
— a conviction of the shortness of, should repress
our projects.....	165
— of multitudes compared to a lottery.....	182
— study of, not to be neglected for that of books...	180
— folly of continuing too long on the stage of.....	207

INDEX.

	No.
Living, art of, at the cost of others.....	206
Lottery, the life of multitudes compared to a.....	182
—— the snares of .....	181
—— imaginary prospects and delusions of.....	181
Love, unsuccessful without riches.....	192
MACBETH, the impropriety as well as energy of the diction of.....	168
Magnetism, pretended influence of.....	199
Mankind, two classes of, animal and reasonable beings	179
Men, majority of, wicked.....	175
Misella, ruined by the treachery of her uncle.....	170, 171
Morad, history of.....	190
NEGLIGENCE, the power of it strengthened by small in- dulgences.....	201
Nobleman, young, progress of his politeness.....	194, 195
Novelty, the charms of, transitory .....	172
OBSCURITY in writing, often the effect of haste.....	169
Opinion, human, mutable.....	196
PATRONS, often corrupted by avarice, and deluded by credulity .....	160
Pedantry, the fear of, often produces it.....	173
Pedants, who properly.....	173
Perfection, in composition, the effect of attention and diligence .....	169
—— methods by which the ancients obtained an eminence therein.....	169
Pleasures, unlawful, the danger of pursuing.....	178
Poetry, debased by mean expressions.....	168
Poor, do not easily gain favour.....	166
Poverty, why so often regarded with contempt .....	166
—— when only to be dreaded.....	202
Praise, the general passion for.....	193
—— the love of, engages in a variety of means for attaining.....	164
Prosperity, often productive of infelicity.....	200
Prospero, character of.....	200
Prostitutes, reflections on their infamous and deplor- able condition.....	171
Prune, Mrs. her treatment of Leviculus .....	182
Punctuality, importance of.....	201
RAILLERY, mischiefs of unbounded.....	17

INDEX.

	No.
Revenge, prohibition of, justifiable by reason.....	185
Riches, sudden, effects of on the manners.....	172
SEDUCTION of innocence, the arts by which it is ef- fected.....	170, 171
Seged, history of.....	205
Serotinus, his quick rise to eminence.....	165
Shakspeare, remarks on his Macbeth.....	168
Student, awkward merriment of.....	179
TANTALUS, his punishment, an image of hungry servility	163
Thrasylbulus, an instance of delusion by flattery.....	162
Town, knowledge of the.....	195
Tranquilla, her courtships and marriage.....	167
Truth, when it enters easiest into the mind.....	165
—— a steady regard to the lustre of, a certain direc- tion in happiness.....	180
Turpicola, history of.....	189
VAFER, an insidious flatterer.....	162
Virtue, the constant pursuit of it the highest excellence	185
Understanding not necessary to gain favour.....	188
Uneasiness of mind relieved by comparing our lot with that of others.....	186
Unpoliteness not always the effect of pride.....	200
WEALTH, impotence of.....	165
Wickedness, the general spread of .....	175
Winter, the horrors of, in the polar countries.....	196
Wits, affected, the meanness of their character.....	174
YOUTH, opinion of their own importance.....	196
—— dangers of.....	175

---

C. WHITTINGHAM, Printer,
Goswell Street, London.